

Aude Motulsky is an assistant professor at the School of Public Health of the Université de Montréal (Department of Management, Evaluation and Health Policy), and a Research Scientist at the Academic Health Center of the Université de Montréal. She is Deputy Director of the Consortium Santé numérique, and co-Director of the LabTNS - Transformation numérique en santé. Her research interests are related to the evaluation of digital health interventions and digital health transformation.